

Niki Kennedy-Reed has been involved in the performing arts since the young age of 4. She received her Bachelor's Degree from Binghamton University, where she studied Theatre and Dance. During her time at Binghamton University she was cast as a lead dancer in the dance showcase "Wish", and spent her college years invested in "Children's Dance Theatre" appointed as a performer, choreographer, costume designer, and student manager. Since receiving her Bachelor's Degree in, Niki successfully owned a performing arts center in upstate NY for 9 seasons. Students from the KPAC can be seen at well-known universities studying dance and theater, and working professionally in the performing arts industry. In recent years, Niki has turned her focus to choreography and workshops with her company Triple Threat Talent Tour. She has also spent many seasons traveling as a dance competition judge, and director. Through Niki's career, she has helped numerous talented youths get signed to agencies and book jobs in the entertainment industry. Niki's choreography can be seen featured on Teen Choice Dancer Chloe Lukasiak's youtube and social media outlets with her solo "Thick Skin". You can also find her creations on youtube sensation, Lily K's channel with "Picking up the Pieces" and "Girls just Wanna Have fun!"

